Celebrate San Jacinto Day, April 18

AUSTIN - Texas has a story worth celebrating. The Texas Historical Commission (THC) is hosting a series of events at its historic sites that bring that history to life for families, history buffs, and curious visitors of all ages. Locally, the San Jacinto Day Celebration on April 18 at San Jacinto Battleground State Historic Site will be a day of fun, reenactments, and living history activities celebrating the anniversary of the Battle of San Jacinto, which won Texas its independence from Mexico. Reenactors dressed in period clothing will make the epic events of April 1836 come alive, and reenactments throughout the day will recreate the dramatic events that led to one of the most decisive and impactful military victories in the history of North America. For a complete list of events, go to thc.texas.gov/america250.

This was certainly a lively group of ladies from the Dayton Seniors group who attended the Dayton Noon Lions pancake supper last Thursday. We were reliably informed that they were bingo winners too! Seated, l-r: Evelyn Wagner, Barbara Feagin and Marie Walker. Standing, l-r: Sandy Henk and Kathy Holt.
